NEW INDUSTRIAL BUILDING FOR THIS CITY

Will Be Topic for March Meeting Board of Trade.

Board of Trade.

The feasibility of a new industrial loft building for Nerwich is to be the topic brought up in the Norwich board of trade monthly meeting for March, next Monday night, a topic which has been impressed upon the officers by their experience with new industries which have been attacted here since the Thermos plant was located in Norwich. The proposition will be presented that the citizens of Norwich ought to provide such a building, modern in all requirements, if it expects to get new industries to locate here.

It is believed that several of those that were here could have been secured if there had been a modern industrial building to show them, but they absolutely refused to look at the buildings that were available.

It was not only the officers of the concerns interested that declined to consider the locations that could be shown them, but it was understoed that the help as well will not work in factory or manufacturing plants that do not conform to the modern ideas of light, ventiliation, fire protection and other sanitary and health contributing factory or manufacturing plants that do not conform to the modern ideas of light, ventilation, fire protection and other sanitary and health contributing requirements. It is believed that it can be shown that such a building would show a 3 to 4 per cent. investment for those who put their money into it, while at the same time having a contributing value in other ways in the increased amount of retail and wholesale business which would necessarily come to the city with the location of new industries here.

Hartford's experience in a $100,000 investment in building an addition for a typewriter plant is shown to have increased that city's population by 20,000 in 12 years, put into circulation $17,000,900 since 1890, resulted in the employment of 4,000 hands in the fall of 1912, and to have created a demand for many hundreds of homes, giving an impetus to Hartford business that was never dreamed of when the $100,-000 building was first talked of.

FIRE PROTECTION FOR SANATORIUM

Private Box 137 Installed Auto-Chemical, Engine Company No. 1, and Chemical No. 2 Will Respond to Alarms-To be Used Only For Fires at the Sanatorium.

Fire protection for the New London county tuberculosis sanatorium here was afforded on Wednesday when Fire Chief Howard L. Stanton completed the installation of private box No. 137 at the institution. It will be rung only for fires in the sanatorium buildings or on the premises and will be answered by the auto-chemical from the Central station, sngine No. 1 from the Main street station and Chemical company No. 2 from the West Main street station.

Since this is a private box the entire expense of wiring and also the cost of the box is paid for by the state. Since all the buildings at the sanatorium are of frame construction such protection as the Norwich department can give is very desirable, and although the sanatorium is out of the city limits, the department is allowed to go to it for fire calls because it is a public institution.

CALIFORNIA LETTER. Written in 1852-Is Owned by Travoling Man Here from Poughkeepsie.

Interested by the newspaper mention of letters and books owned by George L. Youmans of this city, L. C. Baldwin of Poughkeepsie brought to the Bulletin office on Wednesday evening a copy of a letter gritten by his great grandfather. John March, from California, in September, 1852. It is dated from a place with the distinctively wiid and party western name of California Murders Bar at the Middle Forks of the American river.

the Middle Forks of the American river.

Mr. Boldwin's great grandfather noted same interesting details of California life at that time. He was not specially a gold-seeker, but said he was making plenty of money working at his trade of shoemaker. For tapping a pair of boots he got $2.50, and he was making from $6 to $10, all on repair work. A man could make more money theree working two hours than he could in 24 hours in Lewiston, which was the town he left to go west. At the end of the letter he asks to be excused from had writing, as his table consists of the end for a pine log that sticks through the building.

Mr. Baldwin, the ewner of the letter, is here in the interests of a type-writer company. He is a cousin of Gapt, Thomas Boott Baldwin, the arctic explorer.

WOOD AND LIME.

Two Subjects Treated in State Bulle. ins from Agricultural Experiment

A further addition to the agricultural expe/iment station's series of reports is given to the public with Bulletin 174 on the Wood-using Industries of Connecticut; 175 on the Cost of Agricultural Lime in Connecticut, and part of the annual report, Connecticut Feeding Stuffs.

The lime report is particularly interesting to raisers of garden stuff in view of the agitation for the further use of lime in the soil. The report says: "We urge those who are liming their land to leave a strip unlimed, in order to show whether the lime has a striking effect, and to wait about final judgment for two or three seasons. A further addition to the agricultural

The demand for the best wood however, has always outrun the supply. oven in the 18th century when wars in Europe were frequent, so much Circassian walnut was used for gunstocks that the supply was seriously depleted. Early in the nineteenth century the wood of 12,000 trees was used for this purpose alone. Single trees, containing choice buris or fine bird's-exed figures have sold for more than $3,000.

The tree is native to the eastern slopes of the Caucasus and ranges eastward to the foothills of the Himalaya Mountains, from which it extends south ward to northern India and the mountains of upper Burma. It has been widely planted in Europe and the United States, in this country under the name of English walnut. The wood grown here, however, has not the qualities demanded by the cabinet and furniture maker. Much of the Circassian walnut now used comes from the Black Sea and other parts of Asia.

The Stock Exchange from Within, By Wm. C. Van Antwerp, Cloth, illustrated, 459 pages, Published by Doubleday, Page & Company, Garden City, New York, Price, $1.50.

The American spirit of fair play should impel all those who are in doubt about the stock exchange to read this book—the first of its kind to appear in this country. It is at once a defense of the great institution and a challenge to its critics, written by a member of the stock exchange who may be presumed to understand his subject. Before jumping to the conclusion that "short selling," is immoral, or that speculation should be restrained by law, or that the stock exchange should be incorporated, or that an unholy alliance exists between the exchange and the banks there is much food for thought offered in behalf of the other side of the question.
